

Residential Habilitation Services Conditions of Participation

Residential habilitation services may be provided to assist recipients to acquire, retain, and improve the self-help, socialization, and adaptive skills necessary to maximize independence and to live in the most integrated setting appropriate to the recipient's wishes and needs. Based on the age and residence of the recipient, residential habilitation services are rendered as family home habilitation services, supported-living habilitation services, group-home habilitation services, or in-home support habilitation services.

The activities provided as residential habilitation services must be planned with the objective of maintaining or improving the recipient's physical, mental, and social abilities rather than rehabilitating or restoring such abilities. These services must be individually tailored, and may include personal care and protective oversight and supervision, in addition to skills development.

Residential habilitation services are provided, for the most part, in the recipient's residence, the home of a relative, a semi-independent or supported apartment or living arrangement, or a group home. Because some skills development may be enhanced by activities in community settings, services may be rendered in other environments provided the settings are appropriate for delivery of the services in a manner that will contribute the acquisition of skills necessary for daily living in the recipient's residence, and are approved in the recipient's plan of care.

The provider who chooses to offer residential habilitation services must be certified as a provider of residential habilitation services under 7 AAC 130.220(a)(1)(E), meet with the requirements of 7 AAC 130.265, and operate in compliance with the Provider Conditions of Participation and the following standards.
