INTERIM REPORT

What is changing?

- Starting June 1, 2023, the State of Alaska Division of Public Assistance (DPA) will be instituting Interim Reports for families that receive food assistance through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

What is an Interim Report?

- The State of Alaska requires all active SNAP recipients to complete an Interim Report halfway through their certification period to confirm they are still eligible for SNAP. That means if your household is certified to receive SNAP for 12 months, your Interim Report will be due in the 6th month, and if you're certified for 24 months, your Interim Report will be due the 12th month.
- The completed Interim Report form must be returned to DPA by the last working day of the month in which it is due, or your household's SNAP benefits will be terminated.

What changes do I need to include in an Interim Report?

- SNAP household composition (all people in the household)
- Earned income (e.g., change in pay rate, salary or employment status)
- Unearned income of more than $125
- Address and resulting changes in shelter and utility expenses
- Child support obligation
- Substantial lottery or gambling winnings of $4,250 or more

What is considered a "complete" Interim Report?

- All questions are answered
- Contains a valid signature
- Verification documents such as a paystub copy are included

How will I receive my Interim Report?

- Interim reports are mailed out by the Division of Public Assistance (DPA) the month prior to the month they are due to the mailing address listed on your case.
  - If you've recently moved, make sure you have updated your address with DPA.
  - If you have an Authorized Representative for your case, a report will also be mailed to them.

What if I return an incorrect or incomplete Interim Report?

- Division of Public Assistance will send the household notice that verification is required for:
  - The information that is missing
  - And a date to return the information

What If I fail to return my Interim Report or turn it in late?

- Failure to return your Interim Report by the last working day of the month in which it is due will result in termination of your household's SNAP benefits. Once SNAP benefits have been terminated, your household will be required to complete a new SNAP application to potentially receive SNAP benefits again.
